

Stars & Stripes I'm Going to Preschool Camp 2017 Camp Spotlight

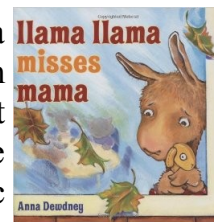

Aug. 7-11, 2017 8:30-12:00pm

(Ages 3-4 yrs.)

Day $33 Week $106

Is your child planning to go to preschool in the fall? This camp is a wonderful way for little ones to experience a week of preschool fun in preparation for school. They will get to enjoy group time, stories, music and movement activities, art, sensory experiences and more! This is a great way to introduce the fun of preschool and let your little ones see what it is all about. Let's go to PRESCHOOL! On Friday, bring a bathing suit and towel for water day activities.

Monday: Is your child ready for some preschool fun? We will start our camp by reading a favorite story, Llama Llama Misses Mama and talking about some sadness that occurs when leaving our parents to come to school for the first time. Coaches will reassure campers that we will have a ton of fun and then their families will come back! We will then get to explore some fun center activities, make open-ended art creations, and have some awesome music and movement experiences. Preschool is so much fun!

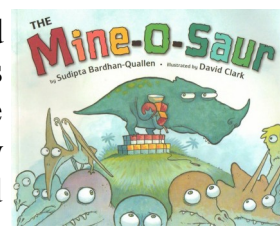

Tuesday: Today we will focus on feelings, and helping our little campers express feelings like anger and sadness. We will read the story How Do Dinosaurs Say I'm Mad and talk about one of the biggest challenges that preschoolers face: appropriate reactions when being mad. We will then have new center activities out for campers to explore, make fun art creations to bring home, and get large motor activity with a pretend snowball fight!

Wednesday: Our campers today will discuss friendship, sharing/taking turns, and being kind to others. We will read Llama Llama and the Bully Goat and talk about the things in the story that are NOT okay. Making friends is one of the best parts about preschool! We will work together with our new friends to explore new center activities, painting during art time, and play some fun large motor movement games.

Thursday: For camp today, we will be starting by reading the story Little Tiger Picks Up and focusing on working together when it is time for cleanup. We will explore some new center activities, and practice our "cleanup skills" by working together when we are done to get everything cleaned up and put away! For art today, we will be doing some fine motor painting fun. Then, we will head outside (weather permitting) for our large motor activity: open play with balls and other outdoor toys. It will be a fun time playing with our new friends!

Friday: On our last day of preschool camp, we will read the story The Mine-O-Saur and remember what we discussed this week about being a good friend. We will discuss kindness and sharing in the form of taking turns. Our centers and art today will be open-ended and allow our young campers to explore many different activities that they might see in preschool. It is also water day, so make sure to bring a bathing suit and towel for some awesome water play activities!
